

A light in the dark

What would you do if you were out in the dark and couldn't find any light? Well, if you were a firefly, you could just make your own!

Lightning bugs

Fireflies contain special chemicals in their bodies. When the chemicals mix together it generates a quick flash of glowing light.

There are around 2,000 types of firefly,

Great glowers

Although fireflies are the most well-known animals that create light, other animals do this too. Most of them live in dark caves or in the ocean.

Railroad worms can give off both a green and a red glow.
