

While the female is away, the male has nothing to eat for weeks.

It gets so cold that the male penguins all huddle together to keep warm. They take it in turns to be in the middle of the group where it is warmest.

When the female returns, she calls to her mate and the family is reunited. The female feeds the newly hatched chick and the male takes his turn to get food.

