

Beavers build the entrance to their home underwater so that predators can't get in.

Lodge

A beaver's home is called a "lodge".

Underwater entrance

Sharp teeth help beavers cut trees.

Beavers have flat tails that help them swim. They also use their tails to slap the water and warn each other of danger.