

O is for orca

Also known as killer whales, these intelligent giants live in oceans around the world. They may look like big fish, but they're actually mammals.

Dorsal fin
helps with stability.

Although they're
called whales, orcas
are a type of dolphin.

Big tail fin
helps them swim
through water.

A thick layer of fat called blubber helps them stay warm.