

"The painter who
draws merely by
practice and by eye,
without any reason,
is like a mirror which copies everything
placed in front of it without being conscious of their existence."

Leonardo,
from his private
notebooks