

“Small particles called atoms exist and compose all matter.”

John Dalton, 1808

Dalton included all 20 elements then known to science in his atomic chart. Some, such as potash, are now identified as molecular compounds; others, such as phosphorus, are never found in their elemental form on Earth.

ELEMENTS
	HYDROGEN 1
	NITROGEN 5
	OXYGEN 7
	