

Festivals

March to May

In Holy Week Christians remember when Jesus died and was resurrected.

Mardi Gras

Mardi Gras is a festival in Brazil. Christians used to celebrate this day before beginning a 40-day fast.

June to August

The summer solstice has been celebrated for 4,000 years. People gather to watch the sunrise on Midsummer's Day.

September to November

Halloween was once a time to scare away evil spirits. Today it is a day of fun.

On Thanksgiving, families celebrate the harvest season with a special meal.

Festivals are special days in the year when people celebrate and remember events in the past.

Colorful costumes

Dancing crowds

Festival customs

Candles are a symbol of life and truth.

Costumes often have special meanings. They may be a disguise.

Music helps people have fun together.

Dances are a way of reliving customs of the past.

December to February

At Chinese New Year a dragon dances through the streets, chasing away the past.

At Christmas, Christians remember the birth of Jesus and give presents.

Did you know?
On March 1, Greeks smash pitchers against their front doors to get rid of mice and fleas.

