

North America

Canada and Alaska

North America reaches as far north as the Arctic Ocean. Its rivers, peaks, forests, and lakes are a haven for wildlife.

Did you know?

- Canada is the second biggest country in the world.
- Greenland is the world's largest island.

Tundra

In the far north is a frozen, treeless plain called the tundra.

Greenland

Greenland lies in the Arctic Ocean. Much of the land is covered in ice.

Glacier

Alaska has huge rivers of ice called glaciers.

Northern lights

These glowing lights can be seen in the skies above Canada.

Mount McKinley

Mount McKinley in Alaska is the US's highest peak.

Moose

Moose are the largest deer in the world. They feed only on plants.

Pine forests

Forests cover more than one-third of Canada. Many animals shelter here.

Grizzly bear

Grizzly bears live in the Rocky Mountains. They feed on animals and plants.

Niagara Falls

The Niagara Falls in Canada are made up of two thundering waterfalls.

