

Transportation

Transportation of the world

Planes are a fast way to carry people and goods around the world.

Tuk-tuks are small trucks used as taxis in Thailand.

Bicycles are cheap and clean. They are popular in China.

Paddle steamers carry people up and down rivers.

Streetcars are electric buses, running on rails in some city centers.

People use all kinds of vehicles to travel long or short distances, and to carry heavy loads from place to place.

Different vehicles

New forms of transportation are being invented all the time, although some ancient forms are still in use.

A modern bullet train from Japan

Traditional Indian cart with mule

A car of the future

Animals as transportation

Elephants in Asia carry very heavy loads. The driver is called a mahout.

Donkeys are very strong. They can carry people up steep mountain paths.

Camels are often called ships of the desert. They can carry goods and people in the heat.

Did you know?
A boat takes 3 ½ days to cross the Atlantic Ocean, while a plane takes 3 ½ hours.

