

First I am launched into space. Then I dock at a second spacecraft that is attached to a landing vehicle. This is how I will fly to Mars. I will need almost a year to get there.

Mars looks red! It is covered in rusty dust. Many scientists think that this planet is a place where humans could live. One day astronauts will land there and find out for sure.

