

VOLANS

The Flying Fish

Volans was invented in the 16th century by Dutch explorers and depicts a flying fish – an exotic creature they saw on their voyages. It contains two double stars that can be admired in a telescope.

DATA FILE

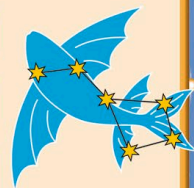

SIZE RANKING: 76th

BRIGHTEST STAR: Beta Volantis

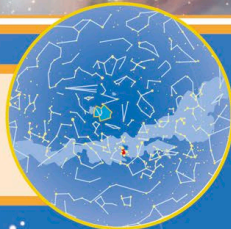

MONTH WHEN BEST VISIBLE:
March – Southern hemisphere

MENSA

Table Mountain

Astronomer Nicolas Louis de Lacaille named this constellation Mensa, which means “table” in Latin, to honour Table Mountain in South Africa. He studied the stars near the mountain in the 1750s.

DATA FILE

SIZE RANKING: 75th

BRIGHTEST STAR: Alpha Mensae

MONTH WHEN BEST VISIBLE:
January – Southern hemisphere

