

BARON ZEMO

BARON HEINRICH ZEMO was a Nazi scientist during World War II. A designer of super-weapons, he built an early laser, a "death ray" that could disintegrate almost anything. Targeted by the Allies, Zemo began to wear a red hood to conceal his identity. He was working on "Adhesive X" when Captain America broke into his lab. Cap's shield shattered the vat of adhesive and Zemo's mask was permanently glued to his head.

REVENGE

Furious with Captain America, Zemo created powerful androids that attacked British and American forces. As World War II was drawing to a close, Zemo went to London to steal an experimental drone plane. Captain America learned of his plan and arrived with his teenage partner Bucky. During their battle, Bucky was killed and Captain America was flung into the ocean, falling into a state of suspended animation.

ADHESIVE X

Zemo invented an adhesive that was so powerful it could never be dissolved. It had tremendous military potential because it could be dropped on enemy armies and glue them to the ground.

Zemo's mask had no openings, but allowed him to see and breathe.

LORD ZEMO

After the war, Zemo fled to the jungles of South America. Zemo conquered a small kingdom. The natives thought him a god and obeyed his will.

The Birth of Wonder Man

Learning that Captain America had been revived, Zemo came out of hiding and tried to kill his old foe. Zemo formed the Masters of Evil and tried to capture the Avengers with his "Adhesive X" spray. When that failed, he teamed up with the Enchantress and the Executioner. Zemo later transformed Simon Williams into the super-strong Wonder Man (right) and tried to use him to destroy the Avengers, but Williams chose death over dishonor.

Crushed to Death

Zemo kidnapped Rick Jones and brought him to South America. When the Avengers tried to rescue the teenager, they were ambushed by the Masters of Evil and Captain America had to go to Zemo's base alone. When Captain America finally confronted the man who had murdered his friend Bucky, his shield temporarily blinded Zemo who accidentally caused a landslide that crushed him.

SON OF ZEMO

Helmut Zemo swore to get revenge on Captain America for killing his father. Wearing a similar costume, the new Baron Zemo tried to drown Cap and the Falcon in a boiling vat of "Adhesive X."

A Bitter Enemy

During the battle, the searing liquid splashed Helmut and his face was horribly scarred. Zemo later sent an army of mutants after Cap and formed a brief alliance with the Red Skull. He later organized a new Masters of Evil and invaded Avengers Mansion. When the Avengers temporarily disappeared from this reality, Zemo gathered his Masters of Evil and refit them with new, "heroic" identities as the Thunderbolts.

Helmut took the identity of Citizen V, a British costumed hero murdered by the first Zemo.

Masters of Evil

The Masters of Evil were formed by the first Baron Zemo. The team consisted of the Melter, who possessed a device that could pick solid objects and often fought Iron Man, the Radioactive Man, a living nuclear reactor who battled Thor and the Black Knight, an armored warrior who frequently challenged Giant-Man. The Executioner and the Enchantress later joined the team, which disbanded shortly after Baron Zemo's death.

A later version of the Masters included the Melter, Radioactive Man, Klaw, master of sound, and Whirlwind, who could spin at superhuman speed.

The latest team: Tiamat, Absorbing Man, Moonstone, Yellowjacket, Grey Gargoyle, the Flier, Tiger Shark, Colossus, Blatant, Whirlwind, and Mr. Hyde.