

Bubbles in the bath

Add a little bubble bath appropriate for children's sensitive skin as the bath runs. Once he's in the water, gently blow some of the bubbly froth onto his tummy.

Then bury a bath toy under the foam to discover together. Using a large wand, blow some big bubbles and let them pop on his fingers or nose.

Squirty water

If you have a plastic funnel or sieve and a clean, empty dish soap bottle, bring them to the bathroom with you. Half-fill the bottle with water and gently squirt it into the bath, or pour water through the funnel or sieve onto your baby's feet so he can kick and giggle at the sensation.
