

The wheels on the bus

Sing the song “The wheels on the bus” to your baby and then take a bus ride together and sing the song again as you travel.

Whisper it into his ear if you don’t want to be overheard.

Mirrored action song

Sit on the floor with your baby facing you. Clap your hands, stamp your feet, pat your head, and so on as he watches you, and see if he can mirror your actions. Guide his hands and feet if he needs some help.

Yes and no

Introduce the idea of yes and no. If your baby is reaching out for a hug, smile and say “Yes.” If he does something you don’t like or that’s not safe, frown and say “No.”

Jack-in-the-box

Make a Jack-in-the-box to entertain your baby. Use a pencil to make a small hole in the base of a styrofoam cup. Push a straw through the hole. Attach a finger puppet to the top of the straw. Push the straw up and down so the puppet peeps out of the cup and say, “Hello!”
