

Try these...

Mind your manners

Your baby learns how to relate to others by watching what you do, so you are his first role model. Exaggerate your words and actions when you say please and thank you to him, and make a point of waiting your turn to speak, to show him the right way to behave and interact with other people.

Humpty Dumpty with actions

Lie on your back on a rug on a grassy lawn outdoors or a soft carpet indoors with your knees raised and your baby on your tummy. Repeat the rhyme “Humpty Dumpty” to him and roll gently onto your side so he slides to the floor as Humpty falls.

Round and round the garden

Say the rhyme
“Round and round the garden” to your baby as you trace a circle on his hand or tummy with your finger, and finish with a big tickle to make him laugh:

Round and round the garden
Like a teddy bear.
One step, two steps,
And tickle him under there!

Airplanes

Your baby’s neck muscles are strong enough for him to “fly.” Lie on your back on the floor, knees bent, with him sitting on your tummy facing you. Place your hands firmly around his middle. Ask him, “Are we ready to fly?” Count to three, slowly lift him up in the air above you, move him around a little in several different directions, and make lots of airplane noises. Then lower him back down.
