

Dine on roasted finger-foods

To make some vegetables—such as zucchini, carrots, pumpkin, parsnips, turnips, sweet potatoes, and butternut squash—more appealing for your baby to try, roast them first to increase their natural sweetness. Cut each vegetable into bite-sized pieces before roasting, and serve to your baby at room temperature.

Recipe

- Preheat the oven to 400°F (200°C).
- Wash, trim, peel if needed, and chop the vegetables into sticks about 1 in (3 cm) in length.
- Place the pieces on a baking sheet and brush lightly with a little vegetable oil.
- Bake for 20–25 minutes or until tender.
- Transfer onto some paper towels to remove any excess oil, and allow to cool.
