

Nurture your sense of humor

Your baby loves it when you make him laugh, although it can be hard to always be upbeat, especially if you're tired. To help you keep seeing the funny, and fun, side of life with your baby, arrange for a close family member or your partner to babysit and meet up with some uplifting friends for a drink or meal, or go to see a funny movie, for example. If you are staying in, why not watch a DVD or read a book that you know will make you laugh out loud.

Collect plastic milk or water bottle lids and wash them thoroughly. Pierce a hole in the center of each lid with a metal skewer and string them, like an abacus, onto a piece of twine. Secure each end of the twine in a tight knot. Tie each end of the twine to a table leg so it sits horizontally and is taut, and show your baby how to spin the lids and move them back and forth.
