

In and out games

Putting objects into a box or basket and then dumping them out can become an appealing game for your curious baby. Give her a shoe box or a similar container, help her fill it with a few toys, soft balls, or empty yogurt containers, then let her dump them out onto the floor and start again.

You did it!

Cause-and-effect toys are really fun now. Let your baby press the doorbell of your house and listen to it ring, help her roll a toy down a sloping path, or show her how to press the buttons of a pop-up toy. Praise her by saying, "You did it!" and explain what she has done so she understands that her actions have caused a particular effect.
