

Sorting and swapping

Put your baby in your lap at a table, or pop him in his high chair, and set two empty bowls or plastic containers in front of him. Add a few whole lemons and mandarin oranges to one bowl and show him how to move them to the other bowl. This simple game allows you to talk about the concepts of shape and color, and full and empty, and he will enjoy moving the objects from one bowl to another.

Copycat doing dishes

Now that your baby is more interested in the world around him and likes to join in, let him try washing dishes. Spread a plastic mat over the floor if necessary. Place a large plastic bowl containing a little soapy water on the floor; add a couple of bright cups, a few plastic spoons, and a bath toy or two, and show him how you wash dishes. Then let him try to copy you, and have fun splashing the water with his hands.
