

Stuck together

Sit back-to-back on the floor with your partner or a friend and encourage your baby to squeeze in between you to separate you both. When you have made room for him in between you, pretend to gently squish him to make him laugh and giggle.

It's a goal!

Turn a large cardboard box into a goal and encourage your baby to roll some soft balls into it. Shout, "It's a goal!" when a ball goes in.

Unwrap

At bath time, wrap a small bath toy in a wash cloth. Give it to your baby to unwrap and ask him what he has discovered, then tell him what it is. Repeat with other favorite bath toys.

Out and about

Naming things can make any outing fun. Use the "real" name for what you see then make the noise: "It's a truck and it goes 'Vroom, vroom,'" or "Here's a dog, it says 'Woof, woof.'"

Hide-and-seek

For this advanced version of peekaboo, ask an older child or friend who will happily join in to hide in the room. Ask your baby where they are. Help him find them and call out "Peekaboo!" as they pop out. Or hide a teddy bear and play peekaboo in the same way.

Peekaboo!
