

Circle his hands and feet

Lift his hands up slightly and very gently move his arms in small circles. Then circle his feet in the same way.

Keep singing or repeating a nursery rhyme—or talk to him softly if he responds better.

Pedal his legs and rock his knees

Lift his feet up so his legs are in the air. Gently rotate his legs alternately in a bicycling motion for a short time. Finish by gently bringing his knees up toward his chest a few times so his bottom just lifts off the floor. These movements are especially good if he suffers from colic or needs to burp or get rid of any gas.
