

A man with short brown hair and a light beard, wearing a light blue polo shirt, is holding a newborn baby in a dark blue fabric sling. He is looking down at the baby with a gentle expression. The baby is wearing a white onesie and is sleeping peacefully. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.

Be a kangaroo

If you have a baby who doesn't settle down unless someone is cuddling him, strap him into a baby carrier, or sling, and continue with any activities you have to get done. Don't be afraid to gently bounce, cuddle, hold, and sway him as you move around, and keep talking softly to him if he is awake.