

Play with finger puppets

For the first of many animated (and, for now, one-sided) conversations, make finger puppets from colorful felt to entertain your baby. He will adore watching these puppets wiggling on your fingers as you talk about each animal, make relevant noises, and conjure up simple stories about them. Always keep the puppets well out of his reach.

1

Draw a head template, plus any key animal features, on tracing paper. Cut them out, pin them onto felt, and cut around them using sharp scissors.

2

Cut out two head pieces for each puppet. Sew the felt features—snout, nostrils, teeth, stripes, and so on, plus eyes, onto the front of each puppet with a needle and thread.
