

Roly poly play

To give your baby a new sensation, gently roll him over on a blanket, bed, or on some soft grass in the yard. He'll soon be rolling himself over once he gains enough strength.

Touch and feel

Everything your baby touches builds his knowledge, so let him discover some new tactile objects. Brush a wool or furry toy across his bare tummy, for example, and describe what it feels like. As he feels it, he may want to reach for it to explore it further. Try other objects such as a soft, squashy toy, leather glove, or baby sensory ball.

