

Make simple hand- and footprints

Now that your baby's hands have unfurled and are no longer in a natural fist, make prints of his hands and feet to stick in his baby journal. Use watercolor paper and water-based, child-friendly, nontoxic paint. If you have a special pottery painting store nearby, you may want to put his prints on mugs or plates as gifts for loved ones. Alternatively, buy a small prestretched canvas from an art store and make prints straight onto the canvas to hang on the wall.
