

Your baby at...
3-4 months

From three months, your baby is starting to reveal something of his personality in the way he expresses himself through his voice and body language: he may squeal and giggle at his reflection, for example, or gaze intently at it. He is growing stronger and more alert now, swiping at objects with his hands and exploring them with his mouth. He's also happy to be out and about more, as long as he is close to you.
