

Try a simple clapping song

Clapping is a complicated movement for a baby, involving motor control and good timing to bring both palms together in front of her body. Although she won't master it until she's a few months older, she will love to watch how you clap to a beat as you repeat this rhyme to her:

Patty-cake, patty-cake, baker's man,
Bake me a cake as fast as you can;
Pat it, and roll it, and mark it with a "B,"
And put it in the oven for baby and me.

Smell new scents

Your baby has a growing ability to tell the difference between smells. See if she reacts to a variety of scents as you present them to her. Try holding a vanilla pod, then a whole nutmeg seed, a jar of cloves, a sprig each of rosemary and lavender, and a fragrant flower in blossom close to her nose.
