

The warm, sunlit shallow seas that fringe continents and islands are teeming with marine life—from luxuriant kelp forests to colorful coral reefs.

