

Montana

From the booming gold rush that left behind a ghost town to the Battle of Little Bighorn, Montana's got an exciting history. Its ancient past is just as interesting, with fossil sites packed with dinosaur bones and a national park formed by a glacier.

State Facts

Abbreviation: MT

Capital: Helena

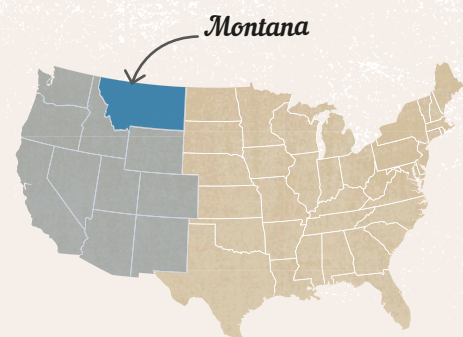

Nickname: The Treasure State

Statehood: 1889, 41st state

Population: 1.1 million people

State flower: bitterroot

State bird: western meadowlark

T. rex

The Museum of the Rockies contains dinosaur skeletons from Montana's fossil sites.

Battle of Little Bighorn

In 1876, the Lakota, Northern Cheyenne, and Arapaho tribes were attacked by the US army for refusing to leave their Montana homeland. The government wanted the land so they could mine gold. The tribes fiercely defeated the US in the historic Battle of Little Bighorn.

This sculpture, "Spirit Warriors," honors the Indigenous peoples who fought and died in the historic battle.