

Hoh Rain Forest

Enchantment abounds beneath the lush canopy of Washington's Hoh Rain Forest. This temperate rainforest is home to thick mosses, pine cones, and gnarly trees! Its cool animal inhabitants include Pacific tree frogs, northern spotted owls, black bears, and banana slugs.

The trees in the Hoh Rain Forest can live to be a thousand years old.

*Mount St. Helens
in winter*

Mount St. Helens

A sleeping giant known as Mount St. Helens lies in southwest Washington. In 1980, this volcano erupted in an enormous explosion. You can visit the Johnston Ridge Observatory for views of the lava dome, guided exhibits, and hiking trails.

*The Space
Needle is a famous
Seattle landmark.
It has a restaurant
at the top!*