

The Wright brothers' test flight only lasted 12 seconds!

The Wright brothers

Once upon a time, only birds and insects could fly. Then two brothers changed history by inventing the first working airplane. Orville and Wilbur Wright tested their machine in Kitty Hawk, North Carolina. It's known for being very windy there, which helped them lift off.

The state flower of North Carolina is the dogwood.

Great Smoky Mountains Railroad

The Great Smoky Mountains Railroad winds through the Appalachian Mountains. It chugs through tunnels and steep valleys and across rushing rivers. You can also check out a model train collection at the Smoky Mountains Train Museum.
