There's a saying that "everything's bigger in Texas." It may not actually be the biggest state (that title goes to Alaska), but it certainly has big cities, vast plains, grand national parks, and huge amounts of state pride! Sports are also a big deal here, with rodeo and football being some of the favorites.

Juneteenth

Juneteenth is a celebration that started in Galveston, Texas, when the last enslaved people were finally freed on June 19, 1865. People celebrate with cookouts, rodeos, parades, and historical reenactments.

The nine-banded armadillo is the small state mammal. The big state mammal is the Texas longhorn, a breed of cattle.
