

Built in Finland between 2008 and 2010, this gigantic vessel is 1,188 ft (362 m) long. She rises to 236 ft (72 m) above the waterline, but her funnels can telescope down for passing under low bridges. The liner's many attractions include 25 restaurants, a 1,380-seat theater, a full-size basketball court, a rock climbing wall, 21 swimming pools and jacuzzis, and wave machines that pump out more than 58,000 gallons (220,000 liters) of water a minute, so people can surf as they cruise! There's even a 2,230-ft- (680-m-) long running track, and a park area with thousands of real plants and trees. The 248,330-ton ship cruises the Caribbean or Mediterranean Sea at the stately speed of 26 mph (42 km/h).
