

Arched hood
can be raised
or lowered

Spider phaeton
UK c.1890

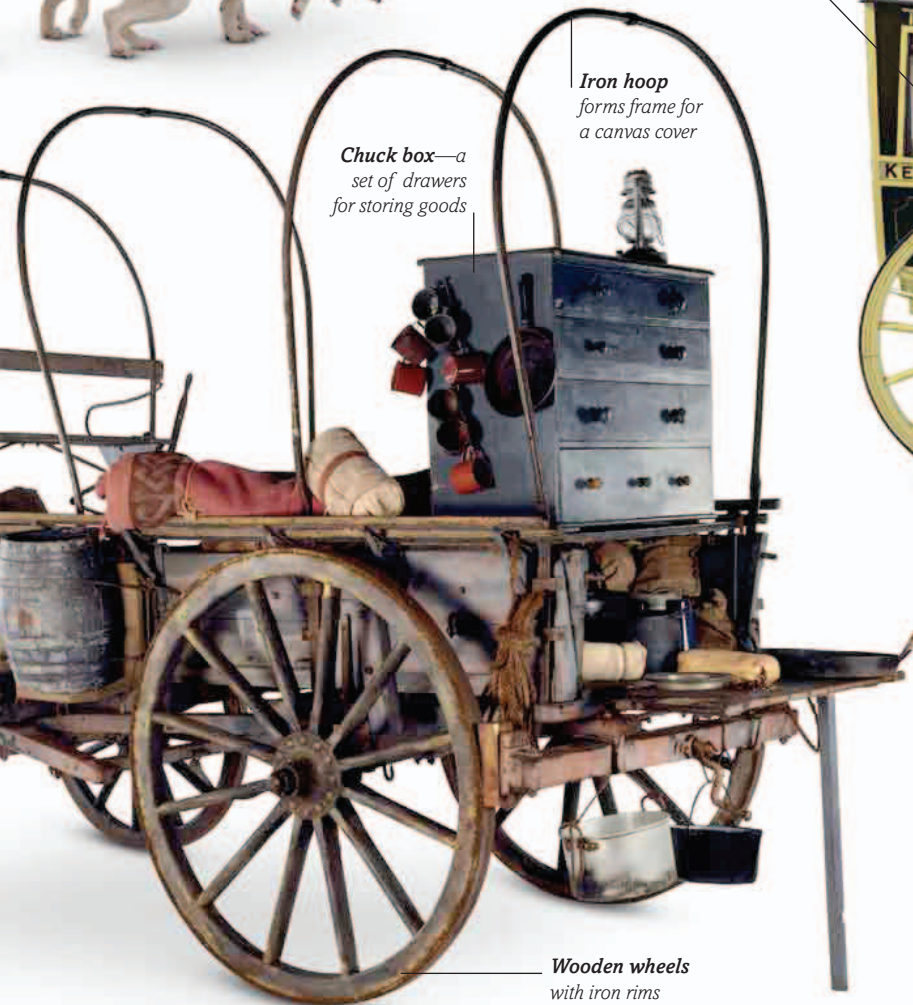

Coachman's
seat

Square landau
UK c.1890

Lead dogs find the trail and set the pace

Chuck box—a set of drawers
for storing goods

Iron hoop forms frame for a canvas cover

Wooden wheels
with iron rims

Railway horse bus
UK c.1900

Flag with red cross indicates wagon was a medical vehicle

Ambulance wagon
World War I 1914–18

off across North America in the 18th and 19th centuries. The four-wheeled, covered Conestoga wagon could carry five tons of food, tools, and belongings, and was usually pulled by oxen. Not long after, fully working kitchens on wheels, called chuck wagons, could be seen following cowboys as they herded cattle across the country. In the towns, small, lightweight carriages such as the Liverpool gig or the Spider phaeton carried up to two people on short journeys, while bigger carriages, such as the Square landau could transport four people in greater comfort.