

Introduction

This book is about science and how it's used. Science is about trying to understand our surroundings – the world and Universe around us and all the things and creatures in it, from atoms to huge mountains, from tiny bacteria to large whales. As we learn more, we find so much that is puzzling. What lies outside the Universe we can see with a telescope, and how does the brain think and feel love?

