The smaller green globes inside each golden volvox are babies. Eventually, they get so big that the parent ball bursts open.
