

Bright bursts

The fireworks display at the Celebration of Light in Vancouver, Canada, fills the night sky with brilliant colors. The different colors are produced when different metals are heated as the fireworks burn—barium for green and magnesium for white.