

LEARNING AND DISCOVERING

We use science
to understand our world.
Planes are flown into hurricanes to better predict the weather, scientists descend into the ocean and volcanoes to study them, and telescopes and microscopes let us see things that are far away or very small. With scientific tools, we can track how animals live in the wild and even see what goes on inside the human brain.