

TRAVELING AND CONNECTING

The world has become smaller as we are able to travel farther and faster with the help of science. We explore the digital world through the internet and travel across the real world in silent electric cars, super-fast maglev trains, and even colorful hot air balloons. Rockets and rovers take us even further, bringing us information from other planets.