

Testing aerodynamics

A rider tests the aerodynamics of a bicycle at a Mercedes-Benz wind tunnel in Sindelfingen, Germany. Racing cyclists are eager to achieve high speeds, which means the bicycle's body needs to cut through air as easily as possible.

