

This group made their mark by leading the pack. Some had a thirst for battle, power, and glory, and won great empires and riches. Others kicked out their rulers because they thought they could do a better job. But they didn't all want to start a fight; a few just wanted peace and equality. Whether monarchs or generals or freedom fighters, these leaders were all very good at telling other people what to do.

Leaders