

Musical Flying Carpets

The Magic Carpet is Aladdin's friend. It helps Aladdin to win Jasmine's heart by flying the couple all around the world and toward the stars. See if your carpet can win you a prize in this party game.

You will need:

- Paper (large enough to sit on)
- Pens or paint
- Scissors
- Music and music player
- Someone to play music

Design your carpets

You could make carpets in advance, or each person could make their own as an activity before playing the game.

- 1 Decorate your piece of paper with pens or paint.
- 2 Cut short, thin strips all the way along the two shorter edges to make a fringe.

Arabian carpets like Aladdin's often have symmetrical patterns.

HOW TO PLAY:

For the first practise round, you need the same number of carpets as players. Lay the carpets on the floor in a circle. When the music is played, all the players move or dance around them. When the music stops, everyone must sit on a carpet (one person per carpet). In each round, one carpet is removed. Whoever doesn't have a carpet to sit on when the music stops is out. The winner is the last person still in the game.

The winner is the last person still in the game.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Magic Carpet is really clever and loves to play chess. Poor Genie loses almost every time.

Feeling adventurous?

You can make the game more challenging by adding a task players must complete before they sit down. For example, players could do five jumping jacks or walk backward whilst moving around the carpets.
