

Mulan's Training Camp

When Mulan joins the Emperor's army, she has to train very hard. Soldiers must be physically fit and strong to beat their enemies. Here's a game you can play that's perfect for warriors-in-training.

You will need:

- A crepe-paper streamer for each player, long enough to tie around their waist and hang down at least 30 cm (1 ft)

HOW TO PLAY:

- 1 Each player has a piece of crepe paper tied around their waist like a sash, with a strip hanging down.
- 2 The aim of the game is for each person to tear off as many sashes as possible without their own sash getting damaged.
- 3 The winner is the last remaining person with their sash intact.
- 4 You could play in teams with different-coloured sashes. Whichever team has the most sashes after a set amount of time wins.

TOP TIP
Tie the crepe paper loosely so it doesn't tear before you begin to play.

Brave warrior

At the army training camp, Mulan builds up her strength and fitness with hiking, running and climbing. She learns to fight using sticks, a bow and arrow and martial arts. She uses her skills to bring honour to her family by saving China!
