

MOANA

Story Stones

In Moana's home of Motunui, stories are very important. The islanders tell the stories of their elders to remind them who they are and where they are from. Use these stones to tell your own exciting stories.

Make your story stones

These stones tell the story of Moana's amazing adventures. You can paint pictures to tell your own tale!

1 Make sure your stones are clean and dry.

You will need:

- Stones
- Acrylic paint
- Paintbrush
- White glue
- Bag or other container

2 Paint pictures on the stones with acrylic paint.

3 Once the paint is dry, varnish with white glue. Leave to dry, then let your storytelling begin!

DID YOU KNOW?

Moana breaks her father's rules and sails beyond the reef of her island.

HOW TO PLAY:

Choose a stone from the bag and start a story based on its picture. Another stone is taken from the bag and the story continues. One person can tell the whole story, or you can pass the bag to your friends to carry on the tale.

TOP TIP

Use a toothpick or the end of your paintbrush to add small details to your stones.
