

Shoebox Theatre

Conjure up a whole new world and some razzle-dazzle with this Aladdin-themed puppet show. Entertain your friends in a spectacular performance where you control what happens and can make wishes come true!

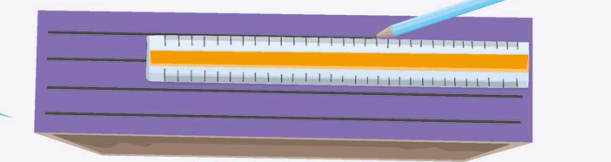

Build the stage

A shoebox is a perfect premade base for a puppet theatre. Transform yours by adding the Cave of Wonders' tiger-face front.

1 Remove the lid from your shoebox and cover the box part in coloured cardstock.

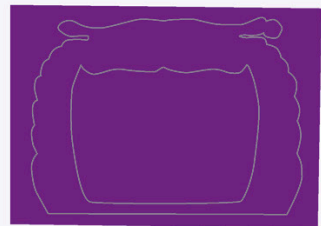

2 Line the inside of the box with a different coloured cardstock or paper.

3 Draw four straight lines with a ruler on the top of the box.

4 Ask an adult to cut slits along the lines with a craft knife. They need to be wider than the wooden dowels.

5 Draw the shape of the cave's tiger face and giant mouth on coloured cardstock. Cut it out.

6 Cut out eyes, nose and teeth from cardstock, and glue or tape them on.

You will need:

- Shoebox
- Pencil
- Coloured cardstock or paper
- Scissors
- White glue
- Paintbrush for glue
- Clear tape
- Double-sided tape
- Ruler
- Craft knife
- Felt-tip pens
- Glue stick
- Sequins and glitter
- Gold fabric
- Wooden dowels

Set the scene

Shiny gold fabric, sequins and glitter create the sparkling Cave of Wonders, which is bursting with treasures.

1 Make the scenery by drawing shapes on coloured cardstock and cutting them out. Include a tab at the bottom of each piece.

2 Spread white glue on one side of the mounds of treasure, and add sequins and glitter on top.

3 Fold over the cardstock tabs and glue them to the stage floor. Make sure everything is placed in between (not directly below) the slits in the top of the box.

4 Glue glitter to the floor of the stage and scatter gold sequins.

5 Cut gold fabric to make two curtains. Attach one on either side of the stage with double-sided tape.

6 Attach the tiger's face to the front of the stage with double-sided tape.
