Figure skating

Skating's start

The sport of figure skating is credited to Americans Edward Bushnell, who introduced the ice skates that allowed skaters to jump and turn, and Jackson Haines, a ballet master who added dance elements.

Routines

Skaters perform dances called programs, which must include spins, jumps, and throws (if dancing in pairs). Judges award points based on how difficult the routine is.
