

Skillful sliding

Sliding the stone to exactly where you want can be tricky on the smooth ice. To help it along, “sweepers” brush the ice in front of the stone with special brooms. The harder they sweep, the farther the stone travels.

Sweeper

The captain of a curling team is called the “SKIP.”

The skip shouts out orders to the rest of the team so that they know where and how hard to sweep the ice with their brooms.

Curling is called the “roaring game” because of the sound the stone makes sliding on the ice.

A very old game

Curling has been played in Scotland, Belgium, and the Netherlands for centuries. The oldest curling stone ever found dates to 1511. It was found in a pond in Scotland.
