

Ryujin

In Japanese mythology, Ryujin, the Dragon King, is the god of the ocean. According to myth, the people of Japan are said to be descendants of the Dragon King.

APPEARANCE

The Dragon King is famous for having an enormous mouth. He holds two jewels that give him power over the sea, and is often surrounded by fish, turtles, jellyfish, and other sea creatures who act as servants.

DWELLING

A beautiful underwater palace made from coral.

POWERS

- Shape-shifting
- The ability to control the tides using special jewels
- Can control the weather
- Able to swallow ships and whales whole