

SENSITIVE PLANT

Mimosa pudica

When I first saw this plant move, I was astounded. A plant that will fold its leaves inward when you touch it? How unplantlike, as though it's from another world! It's a constant reminder of the wonders of nature and a calming, characterful presence in your home.

“I am a magical plant;
I respond to your touch.”

Help me thrive

POSITION

Keep out of direct sunlight and at temperatures no lower than 55°F (13°C), ideally in a humid location, such as a bathroom.

POTTING

Repot into the next size up when roots grow through the bottom of the pot or in circles inside. Use a fairly rich loam-based potting mix.

GROWTH RATE

Can reach 2ft (60cm) tall by 2ft (60cm) wide. Taller growing stems might need cane support or cutting out.

CARE

Keep the plant moist at all times and feed monthly during the summer with a general liquid houseplant fertilizer.

I'm alive

I'm a unique plant that will be a living presence in your room, because I can open and close my leaves when touched or shaken or there's a change in temperature. This gives me a human or animal-like quality, so you are bound to emotionally connect with me.

Let's make babies

I can easily be propagated by taking semiripe cuttings, which are from the current season's growth, in summer or fall. Plant these cuttings in seed and cutting compost, which will help them establish strong roots.
