

String of pearls ►

Curio rowleyanus

The tumbling beads of this plant cascade down over the container like a waterfall, helping evoke a feeling of calm and encouraging creative thoughts to flow. It's a plant that will leave you feeling stimulated and full of bright ideas, as calmness and creativity combine to help you innovate while remaining in a tranquil, composed state. See pp.64–65

◄ Moth orchid

Phalaenopsis

As its name suggests, the flowers of this orchid resemble a moth or butterfly frozen in time, and this image, in turn, can be likened to the spontaneity of thought. Just like a fluttering moth, our brains can go back and forth between ideas, stopping to capture the best ones. And just like a butterfly, our creativity can soar when this plant is around. See pp.112–113

The prayer plant may surprise you with its rare dainty flowers

Prayer plant ►

Maranta leuconeura

With a unique personality of its own, this plant mimics the daily human cycle by closing at night and reopening in the morning. It's a great reminder that, just like this plant, sometimes we need to step back, rest, and then return to a great idea to refresh our minds. See pp.104–105
